
Contents

1	Introduction: Political Policy Analysis	1
1.1	Policy Analysis in Theory and Practice	5
1.1.1	Analysis and Advice	6
1.1.2	Stages, Steps, or Going Round in Circles?	7
1.1.3	Rational, or Reasonable?	11
1.2	Policy-Making is Social Problem-Solving	12
1.2.1	Tame and Wicked Problems	12
1.2.2	Evidence-Based, or Evidence-Informed?	13
1.2.3	Government by Discussion	15
1.3	Renovate, or Demolish and Rebuild?	17
1.3.1	Evolution, Revolution, and Muddling Through	17
1.3.2	On Being Modest and Realistic	19
1.3.3	Dynamic Change and the Adaptive State	20
1.4	Exercises	21
	References	21
 Part I Doing Policy Analysis
2	Clear Commissioning and Project Planning	27
2.1	Mindsets	28
2.1.1	Two Ears, Two Eyes, One Mouth	28
2.1.2	Ask, Don't Assume	30
2.1.3	Time is Money—Make the Best Use of It	32
2.2	Tools and Techniques	34
2.2.1	Claim Permission to Ask Questions	34
2.2.2	Use a Commissioning Checklist	35
2.2.3	Work Backwards to Plan a Project	37
2.3	Exercises	39
	References	40
3	Collective Thinking	41
3.1	Mindsets	42
3.1.1	Thinking Together, Before We Write	43

3.1.2	Get Clear on the Purpose	44
3.1.3	Focus on Practical Results	45
3.2	Tools and Techniques	47
3.2.1	Picking One Another's Brains	48
3.2.2	Outlining	52
3.2.3	Storyboarding	53
3.3	Exercises	55
	References	56
4	Tell a Compelling Policy Story	59
4.1	Mindsets	60
4.1.1	"Just Talk to Me"	61
4.1.2	Help Your Audience See the Wood and the Trees	62
4.1.3	Less is More—If in Doubt, Leave It Out	63
4.2	Tools and Techniques	64
4.2.1	Put the Most Important Information First	65
4.2.2	Write for the Ear, not the Eye	66
4.2.3	Learn to Deliver an "Elevator Pitch"	68
4.3	Exercises	71
	References	72
5	Peer Review and Quality Assurance	73
5.1	Mindsets	74
5.1.1	"It is Never My Report"	75
5.1.2	Draw on Your Colleagues' Knowledge, Skills, and Experience	76
5.1.3	Expect to Make Mistakes	77
5.2	Tools and Techniques	79
5.2.1	Quality Assurance from Go to Whoa	79
5.2.2	Use Agreed Peer Review Criteria	82
5.2.3	Giving and Receiving Feedback	86
5.3	Exercises	89
	References	89
 Part II Reflective Practice
6	What Is the Purpose of Public Policy?	93
6.1	Utility, Fairness, Freedom?	95
6.1.1	Maximise Happiness Impartially Over the Long Run	95
6.1.2	Persons as Ends, Justice as Fairness	98
6.1.3	Individual Liberty, Private Property, and the Minimal State	102
6.2	Community, Capabilities, Wellbeing?	105
6.2.1	Belonging, Community, and Civic Virtue	105
6.2.2	Capabilities to Lead Valued Lives	107

6.2.3	Improve Wellbeing Sustainably	110
6.3	Doing Policy Analysis with People who Think Differently	116
6.3.1	Values Pluralism and Navigating Between the Stars	116
6.3.2	Defining Problems and Identifying Possible Solutions	117
6.3.3	The Art of Free and Frank Advice	119
6.4	Exercises	121
	References	121
7	How Do I Know I Am Making a Difference?	127
7.1	Knowing Without Certainty	128
7.1.1	Unintended Consequences	129
7.1.2	Decision-Making During a Crisis	132
7.1.3	Expect the Unexpected	135
7.2	Justifying the Use of Public Authority	136
7.2.1	Long Arms, Deep Pockets	137
7.2.2	Liberty-Limiting Principles	139
7.2.3	Who is the Best Judge?	142
7.3	Who Are the Guardians of Public Value?	144
7.3.1	Bureaucrats as Guardians of Public Value?	145
7.3.2	Politicians as Guardians of Public Value?	147
7.3.3	Democracy Rules	149
7.4	Exercises	151
	References	152
8	Policy-Making as Social Problem-Solving	157
8.1	Managing Interests in Public Policy-Making	159
8.1.1	Stakeholders, Interests, and Interest Groups	159
8.1.2	A Pluralist, Democratic, and Political Politics	161
8.1.3	Managing Conflicts of Interest	163
8.2	Stakeholder Analysis and Prioritisation	165
8.2.1	Define Your Own Strategic Frame	167
8.2.2	Identify Stakeholders and Analyse Their Interests	169
8.2.3	Prioritise Stakeholders for Engagement	171
8.3	The Art of Public Persuasion	176
8.3.1	Forms and Styles of Democracy	176
8.3.2	Aristotle on Persuasive Communication	178
8.3.3	Knowledge, Know-How, and Practical Wisdom	182
8.4	Exercises	183
	References	184
9	People, Place, and Public Policy	187
9.1	Demographic Trends and Public Policy	189
9.1.1	Census Counts, Estimates, and Projections	189
9.1.2	Population Characteristics	192

9.1.3	Why Demographics Matters for Policy Analysis	195
9.2	Identities, Classifications, and Social Groups	197
9.2.1	Identities: Who Am I? Who Are We?	197
9.2.2	Classifications and Social Groups	204
9.2.3	Proportionality, Correlation, and Causation	205
9.3	Identity Groups and Democratic Politics	208
9.3.1	Individuals and Groups	208
9.3.2	Majorities, Minorities, and Democratic Politics	210
9.3.3	Freedom, Equality, and Fairness	213
9.4	Exercises	213
	References	214
10	Governing for the Future	219
10.1	The Big Picture and the Long Haul	220
10.1.1	Who is My Client?	221
10.1.2	Integrity and Trustworthiness	222
10.1.3	A Spirit of Service	223
10.2	For Us, and For Those who Come After Us	224
10.2.1	React, Respond, and Anticipate	225
10.2.2	Prudence Without Paralysis	227
10.2.3	Reflect, Learn, and Adapt	230
10.3	Build Alliances for Durable Policy-Making	233
10.3.1	Keep Developing People Skills	234
10.3.2	Widen the Circle of Policy Deliberation	236
10.3.3	Avoid Group-Think and Make Room for New Ideas	237
10.4	Exercises	240
	References	240