

Contents

Preface.....	9
Introduction.....	11
1. The influence of the crisis situation on the nature of political decision-making.....	13
1.1. From the standard model of political representation to the representative turn.....	20
1.2. A representative turn in the concept of N. Urbinati.....	35
1.3. A non-political model of decision-making as a result of the deformation of representative democracy in the concept of N. Urbinati.....	39
2. Expert decision-making in a crisis situation in the conditions of the Slovak Republic.....	47
2.1. Rational discourse during the COVID-19 pandemic.....	52
2.2. The consequences of expert decision-making: populism as a response to rational discourse.....	55
3. State management during a crisis situation in the conditions of the Slovak Republic.....	71
3.1. Crisis management bodies.....	74
3.2. Declaration of extraordinary situation and state of emergency	82
3.3. Revocation of extraordinary situation.....	96
4. Territorial self-governments as an equal partner of the state in fulfilling tasks during a crisis situation.....	98
4.1. The position of territorial self-governments in times of crisis ..	99
4.2. New measures with an impact on territorial self-government budgets.....	106
4.3. Starting points and solutions for territorial self-governments	111
5. Recession and revival of the economy.....	118
5.1. Development of the Slovak economy 2018–2020.....	118
5.2. Development of the Slovak economy 2021–2023.....	121
5.3. Financial assistance from European funds.....	126

DECISION-MAKING OF THE STATE IN A CRISIS SITUATION

6. Trust in institutions.....	130
6.1. Changes in behaviour and attitudes under the influence of social changes.....	132
6.2. Trust in national and transnational institutions.....	139
6.3. Trust in political parties.....	145
6.4. Trust in the media.....	149
Conclusion.....	153
List of References.....	161
Name and Subject Index.....	177