

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
1 Introduction	1
Asking questions about social media	1
Social media and voices from below	2
Nodes and echo chambers	6
The power of algorithms	7
Affective communities	10
Influencers	13
The ephemeral nature of social media use	14
Social media and news	17
The ethics of researching social media	20
Consent and information	21
Confidentiality and anonymity	22
Opportunities and limitations for social research	23
So what do we use?	23
2 Qualitative content analysis: text and speech-based material	25
Introduction	25
Qualitative content analysis: meaning making and text	26
Fitting QCA into the research process	28
The research design phase	29
Organizing and analysis of data	32
Presentation of results	37
3 Qualitative visual content analysis	39
Introduction	39
History and current research	40
Defining and working with key theoretical concepts	43
Research design and preparation	45
Questions of data collection and generalization	47
Coding frame and examples of analytical tools	49
Presentation of results	56
4 Analyzing social media language with critical discourse analysis	58
Introduction	58
What is CDA?	59
Why word choice is political	61

How words suggest models of how the world works	63
How to do CDA	63
Revealing the scripts or 'doings' of discourse	64
Summary	67
Participants	67
Actions	67
Doing a project with CDA: fitness influencers on Chinese Weibo	67
Research question	68
Literature review	68
Choosing and gathering data	69
The analysis	70
Being independent	70
Choice	70
Self-management	74
Striving	75
Consuming Western products	77
Drawing conclusions	78
5 Multimodal critical discourse analysis	79
Introduction	79
What is MCDA?	84
Visual communication involves choices	85
The choices we make are political	85
How choices tell bigger stories about the world	86
Codification and classification	87
How to do MCDA	88
Revealing the scripts or 'doings' of discourse	88
Analyzing participants	88
Analyzing actions	90
Shaping viewer engagement	92
Personal address	92
Perspective	93
Distance	94
Settings in images	94
Images in compositions	94
Images can create hierarchies	95
Images can be coordinated	95
Doing a project with MCDA: fitness influencers on Chinese Weibo	95
Research question	96
Literature review	97
Choosing and gathering data	98
The analysis	98
A decontextualized world	99
Coordinated life domains	99
The people and actions in the images	102
Drawing conclusions	102

6	Multimodal narrative analysis of video clips	103
	Introduction	103
	Telling stories about the world	103
	Film clips and models of the world	104
	Identifying the discursive scripts in film clips	105
	Participants	106
	Social action and social interactions	106
	Settings	107
	Language, narration, and captions	107
	The stages in film clips	107
	The problem-solution structure	108
	Recounting events	113
	Projection narratives: possible worlds	119
	Projection sequence in the fitness influencer clip	128
	Doing a research project using film clips as data	130
	Creating a literature review	130
	Gathering and managing the data	132
	Carrying out the analysis	133
	Presenting the findings	133
	Drawing conclusions	134
7	Online ethnography	135
	Introduction	135
	A brief history of online ethnography	136
	Current research areas and case studies	139
	Planning an online ethnography	141
	Combining research materials and methods	143
	Archival, elicited, and field note data	144
	Different degrees of researcher participation	144
	Writing up and presenting ethnographic findings	145
8	Focus group interviews	150
	Introduction	150
	History and current research	151
	The purpose of focus group research	153
	Developing themes and research questions	155
	Selecting and reaching informants	157
	Creating an interview guide	161
	Different types of interview questions	162
	Online spaces for conducting interviews	164
	Asynchronous online focus groups	165
	Synchronous online focus groups	166
	Transcription	167
	Analyzing focus groups	169
	Presenting results	170

9 Conclusion 172

Situating the book: social media data in media and communication studies 172

Qualitative methodology in an evolving world 173

The book in relation to big data and quantification 173

The value of case study research 174

Coda 175

Bibliography 176

Index 200