

Contents

Series editor's foreword	vii
Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	1
The centrality of method in the social sciences	1
What is 'method'?	2
What is 'methodology'?	2
Debate about methods in the social sciences	4
Purpose and outline of this book	6
Suggested further reading	9
1 What is ethnography?	10
Introduction	10
The history of ethnography	11
Ethnography, sociology and common sense	13
'Big' and 'little' ethnography	17
Critiques of ethnography	19
Conclusion	25
Suggested further reading	26
2 Ethnography as method and methodology	27
Introduction	27
The philosophy of social research	28

vi Ethnography

The natural science model of social research	29
The humanistic model of social research	31
The methodological bases of ethnography	37
The double crisis of ethnography	38
Post-postmodern ethnography	48
Conclusion	54
Suggested further reading	55
3 The research process in ethnography	56
Introduction	56
Research design in ethnography	57
Data collection techniques	58
Case studies and generalizations	76
Other issues of good practice	82
Conclusion	102
Suggested further reading	103
4 The analysis, interpretation and presentation of ethnographic data	104
Introduction	104
Analysis	106
Interpretation	122
Reflexivity	126
The presentation of ethnographic data	133
Conclusion	141
Suggested further reading	142
5 Uses of ethnography	143
Introduction	143
Knowledge generation	143
Theory-building in ethnography	148
Applied ethnographic research	155
Conclusion	168
Suggested further reading	171
Conclusion: whither ethnography?	172
Introduction	172
Globalization and ethnography	174
Tradition, identity and Ulster Loyalism	176
The global-local nexus	179
Local crime management in Belfast	181
Conclusion	186
Suggested further reading	187
Glossary	188
Bibliography	194
Index	207